CAUSE

The offender was initially convicted of Conspiracy to Engage in a Pattern of Racketeering Activity in 2004, and was released to the community in November 2007, after completing a 96 month sentence. The U.S. Probation Office filed a violation and on February 20, 2009, Trapps was sentenced to 7 months imprisonment and 43 months supervised release after violating his conditions of supervision by engaging in new criminal conduct and possessing a controlled substance. He was released from the Bureau of Prisons on April 9, 2009. Special conditions of supervision called for the offender to serve four months of home confinement, participate in a program for substance abuse to include testing and treatment, contribute to the cost of evaluation and monitoring, provide financial information to the probation officer, refrain from alcohol and a search condition.

Trapps commenced his period of home confinement on April 24, 2009. On June 19, 2009, while working as a laborer for the City of Syracuse Department of Public Works, Trapps left the GPS tracker unattended for a brief period of time. When he returned, the tracker was no longer where he left it. Trapps immediately contacted this office and was re-issued a new one. However, the replacement cost of the unit is $879 that has to be paid to the monitoring company. This office has advised Trapps that he is responsible for the payment, per the conditions of the home confinement.

Trapps has agreed to make payments and this office would like to see this amount be added as a condition of supervision, to ensure the full payment is made prior to expiration. The offender completed home confinement on August 24, 2009, without violations and appears to be making good progress.
